TAKUMI

Etched Designs Inspired by Japanese Woodblock Printing

Taking inspiration from the Japanese block-printing tradition, our Takumi bathware collection borrows from this centuries-old art form. Typically appearing on Kimono, paper screens, lacquer panels and wallpaper, Japan's timeless repeat patterns lend themselves perfectly to a relaxing bathing experience.

Patterns are delicately etched onto the surface of our MarbleForm bathware by hand, creating an interesting contrast in texture and resulting in a delicate play on light and reflection. The Takumi technique can be applied to any of our products and bespoke pattern requests are welcomed.

SOHO BASIN, NAMI

Featuring the elegant and minimalist Nami design, inspired by nature and considered a symbol of strength, our Soho basin is engraved with a seamless loop of rolling waves.

DORIC BASIN, ASANOHA

One of the most popular traditional Japanese patterns Asanoha, depicting overlapping autumnal leaves, has such a fresh and contemporary appeal.

CONSTANT EVOLUTION

Contemporary Tapered-rim Designs

You have spoken and we have heard. Several of our most coveted designs, namely the Evolve and Skye baths, and Soho, Doric and Eigg basins, have been updated with a sleek tapered rim for a lighter and more refined outlook. We think so anyway!

OCEAN PARK MARRIOTT

Hong Kong

The first phase of this landmark project at Hong Kong's famed Ocean Park theme park opened in October 2018. Comprising 471 guestrooms and suites that combine modern design with nature-inspired décor, the Hong Kong Ocean Park Marriott Hotel is a green oasis in Hong Kong.

Designed by renowned architecture and design firm - Aedas, a bespoke seamless shower panel and bath were designed for the Deluxe and Themed Rooms in the Marina Wing.

MARRIOTT LOUISVILLE DOWNTOWN

Kentucky, USA

Carved from a single piece of Bianco Almeda marble, this distinctive double vanity basin was designed in collaboration with Jonathan Nehmer + Associates and HVS Design for the stylish newly opened Porch Kitchen & Bar.
